What type of plot is the above? How is it produced?

What is this type of plot good for in general? Is anything apparent from this particular plot?